Supporting Vaccine Confidence CFDA 93.344

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), Office of Infectious Disease and HIV/AIDS Policy (OIDP) anticipates the availability of funding for projects to increase vaccine confidence among adults and children (parents and guardians) across the United States. Vaccines are among the most effective public health interventions available, behind only access to clean water in terms of reducing the burden of infectious diseases. An essential pillar of success for a national vaccine program is maintaining high rates of immunity in communities. To reach the necessary number of vaccinated individuals within a population for community immunity, a high level of public trust in the immunization systems, i.e., vaccine confidence, is needed. The initiative will look to enhance the work of local communities and their partnerships with immunization “champions” to identify, plan, implement, and evaluate evidence-based practices. Projects will focus on improving confidence in three areas: confidence in the project, in the provider, and in policy. OIDP will lead this initiative in partnership with the Office of Regional Health Operations (ORHO), within the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health (OASH).

National Dislocated Worker Grants (DWGs) are discretionary grants awarded by the Secretary of Labor under Section 170 of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) to provide employment-related services for dislocated workers. The Department funds two types of DWGs: Disaster Recovery and Employment Recovery. Disaster Recovery DWGs provide funding to create temporary employment opportunities to assist with clean-up and recovery efforts when an area impacted by an emergency or major disaster is declared eligible for public assistance by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) or is declared, or otherwise recognized, as an emergency or disaster of national significance by a Federal agency with authority or jurisdiction over Federal response to the disaster or emergency. Employment Recovery DWGs temporarily expand capacity to serve dislocated workers and to meet the increased demand for employment and training services following a qualifying event. Qualifying events include major economic dislocations, such as plant closures, mass layoffs, or higher-than-average demand for employment and training activities for dislocated members of the Armed Forces and their spouses. Under 20 CFR 687.110(a)(5), the Secretary of Labor may determine other major dislocations eligible for Employment Recovery DWGs.

The U.S. Department of Labor's (DOL) Veterans' Employment and Training Service (VETS) supports local Stand Down events that assist veterans experiencing homelessness by providing a wide range of employment, social, and health services. Stand Down is a military term referring to an opportunity to achieve a brief respite from combat. Troops assemble in a base camp to receive new clothing, hot food, support services, and a relative degree of safety before returning to combat action. A DOL VETS-funded Stand Down event serves a similar purpose; however, it is intended for veterans experiencing or at-risk of homelessness. The critical services provided at these events are often the catalyst that enables those individuals to reenter the workforce.

VETS awards these noncompetitive grants on a first-come, first-served basis to support one-day or multi-day events at up to $7,000 or $10,000, respectively. They are collaborative events coordinated between VA, DOL, other federal, state, and local government agencies and community-based organizations providing services and supplies to veterans experiencing and at risk of homelessness. In the event of a federal disaster declaration, VETS will accept applications up to $50,000 to conduct Stand Down events in the impacted areas.

State, Territory, and Possession, county, city, local, special district, and Native American tribal governments and agencies, non-profit and for-profit entities, state and local workforce boards, institutions of higher education, public and tribal housing authorities and faith-based organizations are eligible to apply.

The Citi Foundation has issued an RFP the Global Innovation Challenge: Homelessness.

According to the foundation, safe, affordable, and stable housing is a key contributor to the economic and social well-being of low-income households and communities around the world. Today, homelessness is on the rise in many communities, and while it manifests uniquely across diverse local contexts, and the definition of homelessness differs amongst countries, the United Nations estimates that 150 million people worldwide are homeless.

The Citi Foundation's 2024 Global Innovation Challenge aims to provide catalytic funding to community organizations working in novel ways to address homelessness. More specifically, proposals are invited from community organizations either piloting or scaling a solution that directly impacts the lives of individuals, families, and communities at risk of or experiencing homelessness. These ideas could include but are not limited to: piloting or scaling a solution that would enhance the current emergency shelter system, such as apps or platforms that connect individuals with available shelters in real time; that embeds financial coaching, counseling, and/or assistance to low-income individuals or families seeking to secure stable housing; or that prioritizes stable housing as the first step, followed by connecting individuals and communities to additional support services such as medical services, mental health services, counseling, or job training.

The foundation plans to award two-year, $500,000 grants to 50 community organizations working in select communities where Citi has a presence. Grants are meant to be catalytic in nature, supporting the piloting or expansion of ideas and projects in the field of homelessness. In addition to providing grant funding, the foundation will seek ways to support the selected grantees through volunteerism as well as hosting learning opportunities to promote shared lessons and best practices.

To be eligible, applicants must be registered as nonprofit entities under local law. For example, for U.S. entities, applicants need to be tax-exempt public charities as per section 501(c)(3) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code.

Organizations must first register and confirm they meet the eligibility requirements to gain access to the foundation's grantmaking portal. The deadline to register to apply is February 13, 2024, at 12 noon ET. Applicants will receive access to the online grant portal within three days, and the deadline to submit a completed application is February 29, 2024, at 12 noon ET.

For complete program guidelines and application instructions, see the Citi Foundation website.

National Fund for Sacred Places invites applications from historic congregations

Deadline: February 29, 2024 (Letters of Intent)

The National Fund for Sacred Places was established in 2016 to provide technical and financial support for congregations, building their capacity and increasing the stability of these critical yet disappearing historic community centers. A collaborative program of Partners for Sacred Places and the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the National Fund is supported by $40 million from the Indiana-based Lilly Endowment Inc., and the Gerry Charitable Trust provided additional support in 2019.

The National Fund for Sacred Places assesses applicant eligibility according to core criteria, while also striving to build a diverse participant pool that reflects a broad range of geographic, cultural, and religious identities. It seeks buildings that have historic, cultural, or architectural significance—and sites that have important and relevant stories to tell. Many participants are listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the state register, or the local register. While buildings need not be on one of these lists, eligibility for one or more of these lists is a good benchmark for National Fund eligibility.

The organization funds historic preservation projects addressing urgent repair needs and/or life safety, as well as projects that increase congregations' ability to open their buildings to new populations or to serve greater numbers of people. All projects must adhere to the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation, which is a universally accepted framework for doing work to older and historic properties. The organization encourages submissions related to historic sacred places of importance to historically and contemporaneously underrepresented communities including, but not limited to, women, immigrants, Asian Americans, Black Americans, Latine Americans, Native Americans, Native Hawaiians, Pacific Islanders, and LGBTQIA communities.

To be eligible, the property must be located within the United States or its territories; the property must have been originally built to be a house of worship, and must be owned by an active community of faith; the congregation must be at least three years old; the applicant must be a religious congregation or closely affiliated nonprofit organization; the property must possess historical, cultural, or architectural value and/or be listed on or eligible for the National Register of Historic Places; the property must be occupied by a congregation that is community-minded and that serves nonmembers; the property must have urgent repair needs related to structural components, walls, roofs, and/or other elements of the building envelope that are integral to building preservation and longevity; anticipated capital projects must respect the property's historic character and materials, and must adhere to the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation; the congregation must demonstrate a need for project funds that exceeds the congregation's typical donor base and membership; the applicant must exhibit several signs of positive organizational health; and the congregation must work with Partners for Sacred Places and the National Trust for Historic Preservation prior to disbursement of the capital grant to ensure that all program requirements have been met.

Grants of $50,000 to $175,000 require a 1:1 match and grants of $175,001 to $500,000 require a 2:1 match. A limited number of grants above $250,000 will be awarded per application cycle.

Letters of intent are due February 29, 2024, and upon review, selected applicants will be invited to submit a full application, due in July 2024.

For complete program guidelines and application instructions, see the National Fund for Sacred Places website.

The Lilly Endowment invites applications for the Nurturing Children Through Worship and Prayer Initiative.

Through the initiative, the endowment aims to support efforts that nurture the faith of children by helping Christian congregations more fully and intentionally engage children in intergenerational corporate worship and prayer practices. Organizations are invited to submit proposals for up to $1.25 million over up to five years to establish new and/or enhance existing programs that support congregations as they design intergenerational corporate worship services and prayer practices that more intentionally and fully engage children and nurture their faith.

Grants may be used to create new or enhance existing programs that address one or more of the following objectives: strengthening worship and prayer practices within congregations that attend to and respect how children experience God and express their faith; enhancing intergenerational worship to be more fully inclusive of children, including those with disabilities; drawing more fully on music, visual arts, drama and other sensory expressions to enhance how children experience worship and prayer; creating or improving opportunities for Biblical storytelling that help children learn and share stories of faith through worship and prayer; and connecting worship and prayer practices more directly to the daily lives of children and their families. The endowment anticipates awarding approximately 60 grants to organizations that submit the most compelling proposals and demonstrate the capacity to design, implement, and sustain high-quality programs.

Charitable organizations located in the United States with Internal Revenue Code section 501(c)(3) and public charity status are eligible to apply. The endowment will offer two information sessions to discuss the aim and objectives of the initiative, eligibility, and the application guidelines, to be held February 26, 2024, at 2:00 p.m. ET and February 27, 2024, at 2:00 p.m. ET. Community foundations have grant monies. These are public endowments that administer a number of endowed funds contributed by a variety of donors primarily for local purposes, to solve community or regional problems, and improve the lives of people in a geographic area. Community foundations total more than 700 across the U.S., serving major cities and counties as well as smaller towns.
